Investment Objective

The Tenax ILS UCITS Fund aims to achieve a long-term risk adjusted absolute rate of return and capital growth from investments in insurance-linked securities, being primarily catastrophe (cat-) bonds. Investment in the fund puts your capital at risk and past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results.

Fund Performance

The Fund rose in July, driven by the positive performance of hurricane exposed bonds. This reflects one less month of hurricane risk, although the riskiest period is still ahead. As for any hurricane season, the Fund performance is mainly linked with how many events the portfolio can withstand, without having bonds with losses in excess of their trigger level. In this respect, risk selection and geographical diversification are the key elements we take into consideration when building up the portfolio during the first half of the year. Trading volumes shrank considerably with widening bid-offer spreads and low liquidity, thus we turned to the last few primary deals to add some risk to the portfolio. Among others, we invested in the first cat bond sponsored by the government of Jamaica, which was finally issued after years and years of work involving the World Bank and a panel of reinsurers. On the secondary market, we abstained from chasing the very few sellers, as we consider the market close to reaching the seasonal tight and we therefore prefer to wait for the volatility that the hurricane season may bring.

Market Update

July has been uneventful in terms of market moving events, despite catastrophe activity has not been muted at all. Europe has been hit by severe flooding, particularly Germany, which have caused economic losses in excess of EUR 10bn. However, flood is not included by default in property policies and as such, insured losses will likely be a fraction of economic damages. Cat bonds do not include Europe flood as a covered peril and therefore the market is not expected to be impacted. The US west coast has been burning through several wildfires from Oregon, California, Arizona and Canada. Despite their size, these fires were located in low density areas which helped to limit the extend of economic and insured losses, with no impact expected for the cat bond market. Major forecasting agency continue to point to a slightly above average hurricane season, with the peak between August and September. A few more issuers accessed the market at the beginning of the month, before the usual pause in new issuances will shift the focus on secondary trading.
